This Study Guide

This guide consists of a set of nine lessons covering the book Welfare Ministry. The division into sections was made so that the studies could be entered into conveniently at prayer meetings or other regularly appointed periods. In this way opportunity may be afforded all church members to become well acquainted with the message of this book.

And apart from the divine instruction given to Ellen White regarding welfare ministry, she knew from a lifetime of personal involvement the joy that comes from sharing. An account of her many experiences in helping the needy and unfortunate constitutes the closing part of the book you are about to investigate. Its foreword suggests the reading of these personal experiences of Mrs. White and her husband, James White, before entering upon a study of the text of the book itself. It will be found that Elder and Mrs. White were engaged in this type of ministry years before any welfare program was organized in the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

When Mrs. White went to Australia several years after her husband's death, she stepped into a situation of financial distress caused by a nation-wide depression. Her response to the desperate needs she witnessed on every hand, especially during the years when she was trying to attract money for the building of a college, is significant and instructive.

As to procedure, it is suggested that after studying the material in each lesson, the student turn to the questions. Page numbers in parentheses indicate location of the answers. Questions are to be answered, quotations are to be completed by filling in the missing word or words, the correct answer indicated in multiple choice and true-or-false questions.

In addition to the use of this guide in connection with a weekly church study program, it can also well be employed by the board and staff of community service centers. These groups will also find the companion book, The Manual for Health and Welfare Services, to be especially helpful.

This guide is made available through the joint effort of the Department of Lay Activities of the General Conference and the Ellen G. White Estate. A meaningful, prayerful participation in this study course can only lead to a deeper understanding of practical Christianity.

3. List four sources of the material found in Welfare Ministry. (p. 9, p. 10)

- a.
- b.
- c.
- d.

4. What wide meaning does Ellen G. White give to the phrase “medical missionary work”? (p. 10)

5. Why is it advisable for the reader to study the instruction in its complete background setting? (p. 11)

6. For what purpose was Welfare Ministry compiled? (p. 11, p. 12)

Study Questions on Appendix:

[4]

“Personal Experiences of Ellen G. White as a Welfare Worker”

1. Not long after her marriage, Ellen White became involved in one of the more difficult types of welfare ministry. What was it, and what was her motivation? (p. 321, p. 322)

2. What was one of Mrs. White’s favorite sermon topics? (p. 321, p. 322, footnote)

3. What example did Elder White set in hospitality? (p. 322, footnote)

4. How were the White boys influenced by their parents’ generosity? (p. 325)

5. Though untrained medically, James and Ellen White treated apparently hopelessly ill patients and were blessed. What type of treatments did they give, and to what did they attribute their success? (p. 325, p. 326)

6. What other beneficial results followed the medical care given patients while Mrs. White was working in Australia? (p. 327, p. 328)

7. If we followed Mrs. White’s example, what kind of donations would we make to the Dorcas Society? (p. 328, p. 329) [5]

8. What was her attitude during an acute depression in Australia? (Circle correct statements--p. 330, p. 335)

a. She couldn't help everybody, so she would pretend the depression didn't exist and ignore the needs around her.

b. She would give to all who applied, without considering their backgrounds or how they would use the money.

c. While not forgetting her needy neighbor, she would see that those financially distressed who were of "the household of faith," received assistance lest through discouragement, Satan take them "out of our ranks."

d. She felt that it was better for the dignity and self-respect of those helped to be given pay for work done, than outright cash gifts.

9. What part did Mrs. White take in the organization of a Dorcas Society in Australia? (p. 331, p. 332)

10. Briefly describe a Dorcas gathering in Mrs. White's home in Australia. What happy result of taking personal interest in the poor is related? (p. 334)

11. Mrs. White's objective in helping "God's suffering poor" was: "We should make these men and women all _____ - _____." (p. 337)

Thought Questions

1. What impact would be made in our needy world if all Seventh-day Adventists became involved in helping, as did Elder and Mrs. White?

3. What responsibility rests upon the minister in the field of education? (p. 206)

Thought Question

[29]

What attitude should we have toward the poor's giving to help others?

Dominant Theme

The church has a definite responsibility to help the Lord's poor. The greatest assistance that can be given, however, is teaching them to help themselves and also to become involved in helping someone

Lesson 6

[30]

Assignment:

Welfare Ministry, pp. 208-242

Study Questions on Chapter 25:

“Our Duty to the Unfortunate”

1. How does God’s glory “shine forth through His church”? (p. 208)

2. How does Christ represent those who have pity for the unfortunate? (p. 209)

3. “We are to make the condition of the unfortunate brother _____.” (p. 210)

4. What was Sister White shown years ago, and also more recently, relative to God’s specific test of His professed people? (p. 211)

5. What are angels waiting to see whether we will do? (p. 212)

6. God “will not hearken to the prayer of His people while the _____, the _____, the _____, the _____, and the _____ are neglected among them.” (p. 213)

Discussion Thoughts

1. Should the church give special consideration to caring for its unfortunate members, or is this primarily the duty of the state?

2. How can we Seventh-day Adventists widen our hospitality in welcoming visitors to our churches?

Study Questions on Chapter 26:

“Help and Encouragement for Widows”

1. What two classes of people have the strongest claims upon our tender sympathy and care? (p. 214)

7. When and by whom should orphanages be established? (p. 229, p. 230)

8. What type of homes for orphans would be most successful? (p. 230, p. 231)

Study Questions on Chapter 28:

“Adopting Children”

1. Who are best qualified to adopt children? (p. 232)
2. What benefits would adopting children give childless couples? (p. 233)
3. What counsel is given to ministers regarding the adopting of children? (p. 234, p. 235)

Study Questions on Chapter 29:

[34]

“The Care of the Aged”

1. When it is not possible for the family to care for their own aged relatives, what is the responsibility of the church? (p. 237)

2. What counsel is given regarding institutions for the aged and orphans? (p. 238)

Thought Question

What special attribute can the care of the aged develop within us?

Study Questions on Chapter 30:

[35]

“Our Responsibility to the Blind”

1. Who are sent to minister to the children of God who are physically blind? (p. 240)

2. “God requires that the same consideration which should be given to the widow and fatherless be given to the _____ and those suffering under the _____ of other _____” (p. 240)

3. “True sympathy between man and his fellow man is to be the _____ distinguishing those who love and fear God from those who are unmindful of His law.” (p. 242)

4. When we make no effort to discharge our Christian responsibility to the unfortunate, the blind, the lame, the widow, and the fatherless, what does God often do for us? (p. 242)

Dominant Theme

Our regard for the unfortunate will unseal the fountains of Christ-like love in our souls, and provide for their care and training. Why is this so?

Lesson 7

[36]

Assignment:

Welfare Ministry, pp. 244-260

Study Questions on Chapter 31:

“Working for Outcasts”

1. What must we have in our hearts before we can do effective Christian help work? (p. 244)

2. Explain the meaning of Christ’s words “Compel them to come in.” (p. 245, p. 246)

3. Instead of asking whether a person is worthy, what question should we ask? (p. 246)

4. What alone degrades an individual? (p. 247)

5. What two truths must be impressed on the outcast if he is to be changed? (p. 247)

- a.
- b.

6. Where are we to look for those in “bondage to evil habits”? (p. 248)

7. List some guidelines to remember in working for outcasts (pp. 249-251)

[37]

Thought Questions

1. How would you prove that Christ's followers have a responsibility toward the "outcast"? Who are "outcasts"?

2. In working for the "outcasts" why are we not to "imitate and fall in with Salvation Army methods"?

Study Questions on Chapter 32:

“Cautions Sounded”

1. What danger is there in working for the “fallen and degraded”?
(p. 253)
2. What effect may it have on careless workers? (p. 254)
3. What counsel is given to young men and women? (p. 255)

[38]

Study Questions on Chapter 33:

“The Call for a Balanced Work”

1. How only can we decide which work will accomplish the most good? (p. 256, p. 257)

2. What is the great danger in planning work for outcasts? (p. 257)

3. How must work for the poorer classes be treated? (p. 258)

4. What is the best way to care for abandoned women and babies? (p. 258)

5. How is work done for outcasts to be supported financially? (p. 260)

6. How is the great work of the church described? (p. 260)

Thought Questions

[39]

1. What is a balanced work?
2. Harmonize the instruction in this lesson with Isaiah 58:6-10.

Dominant Theme

A special spiritual work is to be done for the outcasts of our cities, but this work must be undertaken only after much study and prayer, and is only one part of the work of carrying the message to the whole world. My personal commitment to the principles of this lesson:

Lesson 8

[40]

Assignment:

Welfare Ministry, pp. 262-292

Study Questions on Chapter 34:

“Our Individual Responsibility”

1. What are the blessed results of benevolence? (p. 262)
2. What work cannot be done by proxy? (p. 263)
